...the key to rehabilitation is in your hands....

PARTICIPATE IN '74

This calendar provides a monthly reminder that the prime aim of corrections in Ontario is to assist the offender in the community so that he is not just a law-abiding citizen, but also a contributing member of society.

The Ministry of Correctional Services invites you to play a part in this vital area of concern, either as an employer, or as a community-based volunteer.

Your participation will benefit you and your entire community as well as the individual offender.

Are you willing to participate in 1974?

One of the aims of the Ontario Ministry of Correctional Services is to return sentenced men and women to the community with the incentive to get a job and hold it. For those without specific job skills and/or good work habits the training received in a correctional setting can be the start of a new life.

But many men and women already have the skills necessary to compete for jobs in the community – they require only the opportunity to work in their particular field.

Men and women on parole or probation are assisted by Ministry staff to locate jobs in their own community. Many employers are familiar with this program and with the Ministry's temporary absence program which permits selected men and women to work or study in the community while they are fulfilling the obligation of the sentence imposed by the Courts.

However, the Ministry's staff is constantly searching for new job opportunities for the men and women assigned to them.

If you are an employer, will you consider hiring a probationer, or an inmate or ex-inmate of a correctional institution? Probation and Parole Officers and institutional staff are available at any time to discuss the job you have to offer and to help you hire a suitably trained individual.

Each application for temporary absence is screened initially by a Board at the institution level. In addition to daily absences for work or study purposes, the program also allows an individual to return to the community for other reasons related to his rehabilitation, for medical treatment not provided at the institution, or to deal with family matters.

Academic classes are an important part of the program at adult training centres, where young men aged 16 to 24 can upgrade their education and begin a trades training course, spending a half day each in class and shop. The groups are kept small to permit individual instruction. Training centre students at the grade 13 or college level may take correspondence courses or apply through the temporary absence program to attend classes in the community.

Trades training courses are taught by instructors who have had extensive practical experience in their trade. The classes are small so that each person may receive a maximum amount of instruction during his sentence.

Ministry staff check out job applications for temporary absences and may visit on the site if an employer has any questions regarding the terms of employment.

To date, there has been a less than 2 per cent revocation of all absences granted. This outstanding record confirms the Ministry's belief that an offender who is given the opportunity to establish himself in society is more than likely to accept his responsibilities.
